Photoshop Elements 12 Features:
New Look with Performance and Performance-Enhancing Updates The version now has a new look that combines many of the user interface features of Illustrator and Sketch. Users will also see a significant performance boost thanks to the use of performance-enhancing updates such as GPU rendering. More Features: 1. Content Aware Fill In the past, there was a tool called “Auto-Warp” which could stretch an image to fit its canvas based on the area of the image that is white (typically, a photograph). But with the introduction of the Content Aware Fill tool in Elements 12, Adobe is removing the need for this feature. It’s one less step in the pipeline and allows you to choose images without any unwanted stretching. 2. Easy Image Retouching In version 11, Adobe introduced a tool that allowed you to use the brush to clean up your photos or remove unwanted blemishes and artifacts. But there were still a lot of limitations with this tool. For example, you had to learn how to select the area of the photo that you want to use. Furthermore, the tool lacked the ability to work on your image in a mosaic format – you could only work on a single area at a time. This version brings the same retouching tool into Photoshop Elements. Users will now have the ability to clean up photos with a single click, with no limitations. But the best part is that the tool is now more like the traditional Photoshop tool, allowing you to remove areas of an image and work on those areas while using layers.

3. Enhanced Picker

Adobe recognized that one of the things that makes Photoshop so powerful is its picker. Version 12 takes this capability and brings it to more users. Elements 12 brings a whole new feature to help you more easily navigate through the Photo library. The new Picker Bar helps you add and remove images from your library with just one click. 4. Slide Merge When creating a multimedia presentation, you want the ability to create a slideshow of your images.

But often times, you have more images than are possible in a slideshow. In this case, you need to crop the pictures and stitch them together to create a single image. Version 12 brings a new tool for this purpose, which allows users to combine a number of pictures into a single image. 5. Powerful Features

Q: Django instances = models.Manager() is not working I have some class like below: class BrandGroupManager(models.Manager):
def get_queryset(self): return self.objects.all() class

BrandGroup(models.Model): name = models.CharField(max_length=50) description = models.TextField() last_modified = models.DateTimeField( auto_now_add=True) instances = models.Manager() class Meta: abstract = True Now, after creating some BrandGroups this way:
brand_group_1 = models.BrandGroup (name='BrandName_1')
brand_group_1.save() I can access them simply like:
BrandGroup.objects.all() I need to use the instances manager, that I've created, because I have some constraints in the original tables that need to be applied to the the brand_group_instances Now, I've tested with this:
brand_group_1.instances = BrandGroupManager() But the

instance is not created. A: I think the problem is that instances is a Manager, not an instance of the Model. I think this means that you could not refer to it in your "routing" via instances. You could refer to the Manager directly:

brand_group_1.instances.queryset()

But I doubt you would use that directly. If you really need to handle instances, I think you will need to do a `get_queryset` of the Manager itself, and apply a filter to that or something like that. A: The manager by default returns full objects, so this won't work as you expect. But you can override the `__iter__` to return instances class `BrandGroupManager(models.Manager)`:

def __iter__(self): return iter(self.get_queryset())

Then you can do something like

---

brand_group_1.instances UPDATE 1: Since you want to use the manager of the manager for custom queryset method,
